ABOUT ME

Shaun E. Young is a partner with Keis George LLP and concentrates his practice in insurance subrogation and defense litigation. Shaun focuses his subrogation practice in large loss fire, product liability and construction claims, with his defense practice focused on bodily injury, construction defect and bad faith claims. Prosecuting numerous high-profile cases through trial, Shaun has extensive experience in all phases of complex and large loss litigation and has argued before several Ohio Appellate Courts. Shaun is proud to have developed strong working relationships with clients, resulting in numerous successful verdicts, judgments, and settlements.

Shaun has presented at many association conferences, such as the National Association of Subrogation Professionals, and to several insurance companies in Ohio on the issues of metallurgical failures, defense of first-party bad faith claims and utilization of expert witnesses to name a few. He is a member of the Cleveland Metropolitan Bar Association and many civic organizations, including the Lakewood/Rocky River Rotary Club and the East Palestine Community Foundation. Shaun is an outstanding member of the community volunteering as a youth sports coach and enjoys spending time with family and friends.
